University of Pretoria, JAR

"Immunocontraception-linking mares and elephant cows"

The lecture will discuss immunocontraception and vaccines currently administered for population management in horses and African elephants, including both pZP and GnRH vaccines. Prof Schulman will describe his own research that utilises the mares as a model to understand the physiological, immunological and behavioural effects of the two vaccine types when administered to elephant cows. Both clinical and in-the-field projects and their findings are discussed.
